Peabody TV Executive Director Camille Bartlett finds that the variety of this year's winners is particularly satisfying. "Once again, our high school work study students have been recognized by industry professionals. I am so proud of their achievements." Added Bartlett, "I am also thrilled that most of the winning entries were collaborations. We have been deliberate in our focus to produce programming that represents our community and have succeeded in doing so through our numerous community partnerships. Thank you and congratulations to The City of Peabody, the Peabody School District, Citizens Inn/Haven from Hunger, the Peabody District Court, Northeast Arc, and the Peabody Cultural Collaborative for sharing in these awards. You are the ones that do the hard work and we are honored to tell your stories."
